A Report

(6 June – 10 June, 2020)

A workshop on Research Methodology conducted and coordinated by the research scholars of the Department was organized in which students of MA other fellow researchers were given presentations on E-resources that are available online. The faculty members also acted as resource persons, and engaged the students in the difficult times of COVID. The workshop saw many research scholars taking on the responsibility of resource persons with confidence and poise. The workshop was joined online by a host of scholars from other colleges and universities. The experiment worked very well.
